JURISDICTION AND VENUE

10. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction because Plaintiffs’ Verified Complaint includes a cause of action for violation of the Lanham Act under 15 U.S.C. § 1125, and, as such, constitutes a federal question under 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

11. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a)(1), because there is complete diversity of citizenship between Plaintiffs and Defendants and because the amount in controversy exceeds Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00), exclusive of interest and costs.

12. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367, because the state claims in this action are so related to the claim in the action within such original jurisdiction that they form part of the same case or controversy.

13. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants under N.Y. C.P.L.R. 302(a) because Defendants transacted business within the State of New York or contracted business anywhere to supply goods or services within the State of New York.

14. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants as the Sales Agreement of Stock Interest in ACS Gear USA Ltd. (the “Agreement”) entered into by and between Double D, Starpro Innovation FAC (“Starpro”) and Defendants provides, in relevant part, that each party to the Agreement “irrevocably submits to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York or any court of the State of New York located in Nassau or Suffolk County in any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby, and agrees that any such action, suit or proceeding shall be brought only in such court . . . ”

15. Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2) because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to Plaintiffs’ claims occurred in this District.

16. Venue is proper as the Agreement provides, in relevant part, that “[e]ach party hereby irrevocably waives, to the fullest extent permitted by Law, any objection that it may now or hereafter have to the laying of the venue of any [] action, suit or proceeding [arising out of or relating to this Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby] brought in [the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York or any court of the State of New York located in Nassau or Suffolk County] and any claim that any such action, suit or proceeding brought in such court has been brought in an inconvenient forum.”

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CAUSES OF ACTION

The Agreement

17. Double D, Starpro and Defendants entered into an Agreement on or about November 13, 2015.

18. Based upon the terms of the Agreement, the sale of stock interest in ACS was never finalized.

19. The terms of the Agreement provided, in relevant part, that:

A. Double D would sell, and Defendants would purchase, Eighty Percent (80%) of Double D’s Fifty Percent (50%) interest in all of the issued and outstanding stock of ACS.

- B. Starpro would sell, and Defendants would purchase, One-Hundred Percent (100%) of Starpro's Fifty-Percent (50%) interest in all of the issued and outstanding stock of ACS.
- C. The purchase price to be paid for the above Ninety Percent (90%) interest in all of the issued and outstanding stock of ACS was Nine-Hundred Ninety-Five Thousand US Dollars ($995,000.00 USD), of which Three-Hundred Fifty-Seven Thousand US Dollars ($357,000.00 USD) was to be allocated to inventory.
- D. The purchase price was to also include customer lists; subject accounts; books and records; all furniture and fixtures; all rights to sell the products as set forth under the license agreement with Adidas within the United States of America and Mexico; all existing inventory; all bank accounts; and all accounts receivable.
- E. Payment obligations of Defendants included, inter alia:
 - i. On or about, November 13, 2015, the sum of Three-Hundred Thousand US Dollars ($300,000.00 USD) to be paid simultaneously with the transfer of ownership to ACS.
 - ii. On or about February 13, 2016, the sum of Seventy-Five Thousand US Dollars ($75,000.00 USD) each to be paid to Double D and Starpro.
 - iii. On or about May 13, 2016, the sum of Seventy-Five Thousand US Dollars ($75,000.00 USD) each to be paid to Double D and Starpro.

- iv. On or about November 13, 2016, the sum of One-Hundred Forty-Six Thousand Six-Hundred Sixty-Eight US Dollars ($146,668.00 USD) to be paid to Starpro, and Forty-Two Thousand US Dollars ($42,000.00 USD) to be paid to Double D.
- v. Commencing on or about August 1, 2016 and continuing on the first day of each month thereafter until on or about March 1, 2017, an additional monthly payment of approximately Twenty-Two Thousand Nine-Hundred Twenty-Six US Dollars ($22,926.00 USD) equaling to the amount to be calculated by the accountant and Defendants, based on reduced invoices to be provided by Double D to ACS to recalculate the Accounts Payable amount owed by ACS to Double D in nine (9) equal monthly installments, which amounts are for the existing inventory, the total of the nine (9) monthly payments equaling approximately Two-Hundred Six-Thousand Three-Hundred Thirty-Two US Dollars ($206,332.00 USD).
- vi. Defendants agree to pay Double D and Starpro royalty/commission of Twenty-Two Percent (22%) on the Free on Board (“FOB”) purchase price of all Adidas licensed merchandise in approved categories, which will be due and owing from ninety (90) to one-hundred twenty (120) days from when Defendants receive payment for the subject goods based on terms negotiated with Double D and Starpro.

20. The Agreement specifically provides that “the sale will only be final after all payments are made” and “all conditions of this agreement are met.”

21. As a result of Defendants’ breaches, Double D terminated the agreement for default, by letter dated February 3, 2017.

22. In response to Double D’s February 3, 2017 letter, Defendants admitted they were in breach of the agreement, and that they had failed to make hundreds of thousands of dollars due and owing to Double D and Starpro.

23. All payments were not made by Defendants.

24. All conditions were not met by Defendants.

25. Notwithstanding their obligations under the terms of the Agreement, Defendants have failed to meet such obligations and are, thus, in breach of the Agreement.

Additional Wrongful Acts by Defendants

26. Since the signing of the Agreement, on or about November 13, 2015, and the conditional transfer of stock ownership, Defendants have done very little to support, promote and further the business of ACS.

27. In fact, from on or about November 13, 2015, and up to and including the present time, Defendants’ actions and/or inactions have damaged, and continue to damage, ACS’ reputation, image and business.

28. Further, Defendants have potentially damaged the reputation, image and business of the Adidas brand.

29. Not only have Defendants done very little to support and further the business of ACS, but Defendants have misrepresented their intentions and contradicted themselves on numerous occasions.

30. At the very outset, Defendants misrepresented their intent to invest millions of dollars in ACS, over and above the payments agreed to under the terms of the Agreement, instead investing almost nothing at all.

31. Not only have Defendants neglected to invest in ACS the many millions of dollars promised, but Double D has received information from sparse reporting that it occasionally obtained from the CFO of ACS, Jong Lee, that Cheema, allegedly, may have fraudulently siphoned monies from ACS and transferred those monies into his other businesses.

32. By way of example, upon information and belief, from on or about July 1, 2016 to on or about December 31, 2016, Defendants, deducted taxes from employee wages, as well as worker contributions, and did not thereafter turnover those monies over to the Internal Revenue Service.

33. Upon information and belief, Defendants have converted these trust funds to themselves and possibly other entities owned by them.

34. Upon information and belief, on or about November 1, 2016, employees complained about Defendants to the Department of Labor.

35. Defendants' wrongful conduct also includes not having paid various suppliers of ACS, and having required Double D to make payments and/or exposing Double D to liability on Defendants' behalf.

36. By way of example, Defendants have failed to make the following payments:

- A. Payments to Double D for monies advanced by Double D, from on or about December 1, 2015 to November 30, 2016, to factories based upon orders placed by ACS, totaling approximately Two Hundred Thousand US Dollars ($200,000.00 USD).

B. Payments made by Double D to factories for inventory sent to ACS, from on or about December 1, 2015 to November 30, 2016, totaling approximately Three-Hundred Six Thousand US Dollars ($306,000.00 USD).

C. Payments to factories for inventory ordered by Double D at the request of ACS, from on or about December 1, 2015 to November 30, 2016, totaling approximately Three-Hundred Fifty-Eight Thousand Two-Hundred US Dollars ($358,200.00 USD).

37. As a further example of Defendants' poor management and running of ACS, upon information and belief, for almost a year, since on or about February 2016, a shipment from Brother Associates in Pakistan, worth approximately Ten-Thousand US Dollars ($10,000.00 USD) has been held at the airport due to Defendants' failure to pay the necessary freight charges of a few hundred US Dollars to clear it.

38. Upon information and belief, this shipment has, over time, accumulated storage charges worth many times the value of the shipment, with the goods eventually having been handed over to the United States Customs Service ("US Customs") that demanded a nominal fee to destroy the goods, as they cannot auction branded merchandise.

39. Upon information and belief, Defendants have blatantly refused to pay these charges to US Customs, which has now threatened to blacklist ACS. The ramifications of being blacklisted by US Customs are enormous, and have the potential to cause serious harm to ACS, with possible concomitant ramifications for ACS' board members, and could obliterate any future chance for ACS to import goods into the U.S.A.

40. Upon information and belief, since on or about February 2016, up to and including the present time, Defendants have also repeatedly refused on their own behalf to pay, and have repeatedly caused ACS not to pay, U.S.A. suppliers who are a part of Double D's combat gear community and are linked to Double D's business.

41. Upon information and belief, such behavior resulted in a lawsuit having been filed, on or about October 31, 2016, against Adidas America, which created major issues for ACS, and for Double D who had to take the lead to resolve this matter.

42. Additionally, upon information and belief, despite personal assurances by Cheema, from on or about April 2016 up to and including the present time, Defendants have refused on their own behalf to pay, and have caused ACS not to pay, major Pakistani suppliers, who are Double D's largest suppliers.

43. Double D has had to work extraordinarily hard to regain the trust of their largest suppliers.

44. Such failures on the part of Defendants and ACS to pay and to honor their commitments have had, and continue to have, a deleterious effect on ACS' and Double D's image and business.

45. In addition, upon information and belief, Defendants have caused difficulties for Double D with some key opinion leaders in the combat gear community which had the potential to significantly damage Adidas' combat sport's reputation (which is the responsibility of Double D) and its future business, were it not for Double D stepping in to rectify the situations.

46. The worst of these difficulties, on or about August 2016, involved payments allegedly not made by ACS and Cheema to the US National Karate Federation ("USNKF") and the Resurrection Fighting Alliance – deals that were allegedly negotiated and ratified directly by Cheema and then, contrary to his assurances, not paid by ACS.

47. As a result of this, on or about November 2016, Double D was forced to pay Twenty-Thousand US Dollars ($20,000.00 USD) to the USNKF.

48. Double D's relationship with the USNKF is of paramount importance, as now Karate is an Olympic sport and Defendants' alleged conduct could have damaged Double D's relationship with the International Karate Federation and Double D's effort to officially sponsor Karate at the Olympics.

49. All these difficulties were created as a direct result of the alleged conduct of ACS and that of Cheema, and, as time goes by, Double D may indeed have to address additional situations in which ACS' contract obligations were not fulfilled.

50. Other recent examples of Defendants' poor management and running of ACS, their failure to market and sell goods, and their lack of credibility can be found in emails sent by Cheema.

51. On or about January 20, 2017, Cheema sent an email ("January 20, 2017 email") to Cedric Dermée ("Dermée") of Double D, stating that ACS "can immediately put all items on AMAZON." (emphasis added)

52. Just several days later, on or about January 23, 2017, Cheema sent an email ("January 23, 2017 email") to Dermée stating that "[a]ll [ACS'] product lines will be on AMAZON within 45 days." (emphasis added)

53. The January 20, 2017 email and January 23, 2017 email demonstrate the lack of credibility on the part of Defendants, in that the first email claims that Defendants will put all items on Amazon immediately, and the second email states this will be done within forty-five (45) days.

54. In the January 20, 2017 email, Defendants also admit that they presently have no sales team, stating rather that they “will be inducting a team of sales people.” (emphasis added)

55. Defendants had previously represented to Plaintiff that Defendants had a sales team.

56. Upon information and belief, Defendants’ lack of a sufficient web presence and lack of a sales team have caused “missed opportunities” for ACS, resulting in millions of dollars of lost profits.

57. Upon information and belief, all of Defendants’ actions and/or inactions heretofore set forth have amounted to an inability to conduct ACS in compliance with the Agreement.

Double D’s Demand and Defendants’ Refusal to Allow Access to the Books and Records of ACS

58. Defendants have refused to allow Double D access to the books and records of ACS, notwithstanding Double D’s right, as shareholders, to access the books and records, and despite Double D’s demands for same.

59. Upon information and belief, Defendants’ refusal is an obvious attempt to prevent Double D from ascertaining the extent to which Cheema may have siphoned monies from ACS to other entities owned by him.

60. Not only has access been refused to Double D, but, upon information and belief, access has also been denied, notwithstanding repeated requests, to Board members W. Akhtar and N. Akhtar, and ACS CFO, Jong Lee.

61. Upon information and belief, Cheema is running ACS on his own, to the complete exclusion of the other Board members and ACS’ own CFO, Jong Lee.

Double D's Termination and Cease and Desist Notice to Defendants

62. As a result of Defendants' failure to make payments and failure to run ACS properly, as set forth above, by letter dated February 3, 2017, Double D served upon Defendants a Notice of Termination ("Termination Notice"), notifying Defendants that Double D is terminating the Agreement for default.

63. In the Termination Notice, Double D further advised Defendants that they are to immediately cease and desist using, and are no longer authorized to use, the name ACS, the Adidas name and/or any Adidas labeled products, or to sell any products as set forth in the Distribution Agreement between Adidas and Double D.

64. The Termination Notice further demanded immediate access to ACS' facilities in order to complete an inventory of all products and to facilitate the return of the inventory to Double D.

65. It is necessary that ACS comply with all of the above so as not to create any confusion in the marketplace between the unlicensed Adidas goods sold by ACS, and licensed Adidas goods sold in the marketplace by authorized manufacturers and distributors.

66. Double D also advised Defendants that, as they do not own any shares of stock in ACS, they do not have the right to make any stock ownership transfers.

67. Defendants have refused to comply with Double D's demands in the Termination Notice.

68. Any marketing and sales activities by Defendants in the combat gear community will damage Double D and will potentially damage the Adidas brand.
